Nehru Asks Soviet Quit Hungary

by JOHN HLAVACEK

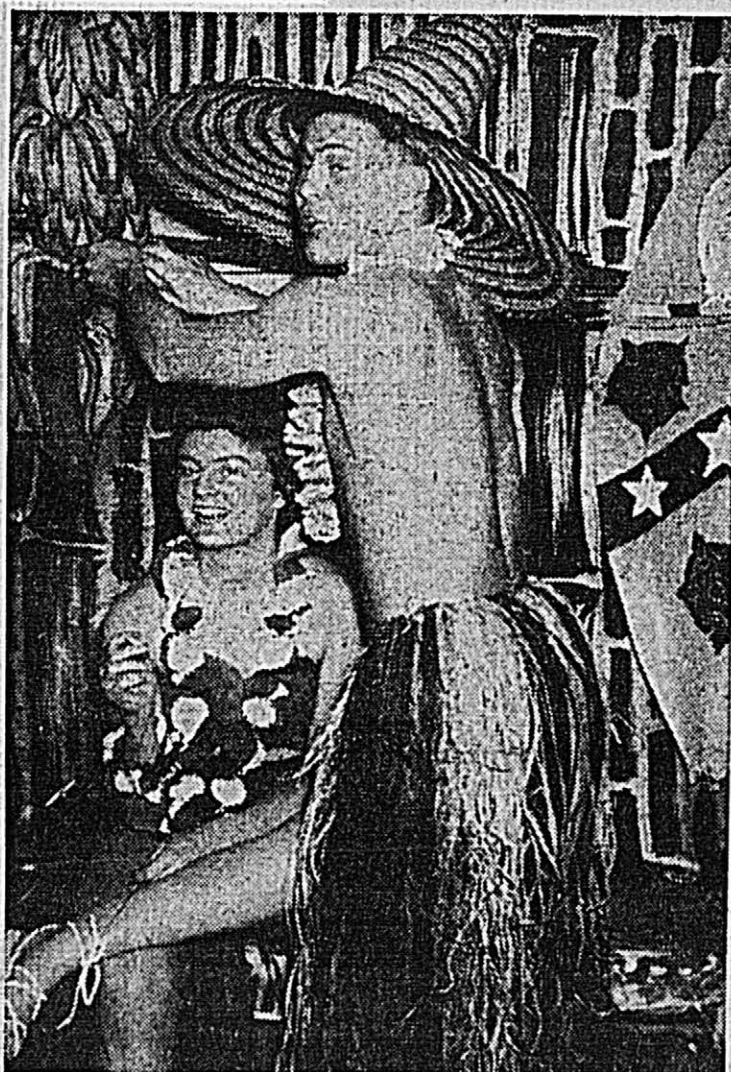

United Press Staff Correspondent
New Delhi, Nov. 19 — (UP) — Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru of India today demanded withdrawal of Soviet troops from Hungary to allow the people the "right to express a free opinion." It was Nehru's first major statement on Soviet armed intervention in Hungary and he coupled it with another appeal for withdrawal of Anglo-French and Israeli forces from Egypt.

He told Parliament that United Nations observers should be sent to both Egypt and Hungary "to report things impartially" and "give a correct lead to the world." "whatever argument there may be for Soviet intervention in Hungary," he said, "one thing is clear.

"The Soviet Army was there against the will of the people. Soviet intervention in Hungary has powerfully affected the prestige of the Soviet Union and her people. The loss is more than financial." He said that Hungary presents "a grave situation. Foreign forces should withdraw and

McGill Fund Closes With 4 p.c. Over Aim

By Gordon WASSERMAN

The McGill Fund-1956 went over the top with an oversubscription of $288,500 it was announced last night at a reception for fund workers in Redpath Hall.

Toward a minimum objective of $6 million for five new construction projects, the gifts and pledges from corporations, individuals and groups totaled $6,288,500.

Provincial Pledge

In addition, McGill is pledged a capital grant of $1,500,000 from the government of the Province of Quebec according to an announcement from Premier Maurice Duplessis received last month.

Word of the fund's 104.8 per cent success was made known by J.A. Fuller, chairman of the management committee, in association with the general fund chairman, R.E. Powell. The total is believed to be one of the largest ever raised in Montreal in recent years on behalf of capital purposes.

Mr. Fuller also congratulated the chairman of the Student's Fund, Gail Jaccaci, and announced that the total collected from the 1/4 of the student body to date was $3,600. "The most important phase of the campaign is just beginning" added Mr. Fuller, "and I urge all students to make their contributions as soon as possible to sum up these splendid efforts."

Dr. James expressed the thanks of the university to "all who worked and gave for the future development of Old McGill and for the future of Canada itself." "Your efforts have done more than provide McGill with the money that is needed to construct buildings; you have demonstrated once again, to every member of the University staff that traditional happy relationship which exists between McGill and the community that it serves".

New Union Discussed

In an interview after the reports were submitted, Mr. Fuller commented that the problems of a Student Union, although not provided for in this Fund drive are "the prime concern of the Board of Governors".

Mr. Powell, President of the Aluminum Co. of Canada, emphasized that the over-subscription is greatly needed because of recent increases in construction costs. Early estimates of McGill's needs were made nearly a year ago when prices were at lower levels. Any gifts that are yet to come, he said, can undoubtedly be used to good advantage.

Mr. T.R. McLagan, president of Canadian Steamship Lines, and a graduate of the Faculty of Engineering, stated in presenting his report that he hopes the money raised during this Fund campaign will provide for "the best engineering faculty in the country". The Engineering project will be the first in the construction plans, Mr. Fuller assured the audience.

McGill Fund activities began on May 10 last with the announcement of the objectives and the formation of the management committee. During the summer, successive phase followed for the solicitation

CANON GREEN BEGINS SERIES ON GOD AND THE STUDENT

by Marcia Crombie

Students want two things from religion— relevance and simplicity, according to the Rev. Canon Bryan Green, who spoke last night in Moyses Hall.

The lecture, which was entitled "Is God Personal?", was the first in a series of four lectures on "God and the Student" to be delivered this week by Canon Green under the sponsorship of the Standing Mission Committee. Canon Green, who has been called "one of the world's foremost evangelists", is experienced in speaking to students. He last visited McGill in 1944.

The Anglican missionary outlined three possible explanations of reality — the views of the atheist, the theist, and the agnostic.

What Is God?

The atheist says that whatever God is, he is not personal," Canon Green explained. "He is an impersonal force of some kind. For instance, Marx said reality is simply motions of matter."

The theistic view, he added, has defined God as a power "greater than which it is not possible to conceive". "To me, this power is personality," Canon

Green said. "It is the most creative power in the universe." And it is clear in the light of recent events, that unless personal relationships are right, living together in this world will be impossible."

The College Agnostic

The "honest agnostic" is often unjustly criticized, according to Canon Green. "They may not have any explanation to offer," he said, "but they can have a genuinely humble attitude toward life." "The shallow agnostic you meet in college is another matter," Canon Green emphasized. "I usually have only one question to ask them — 'Have you read one book on Christian theology equal to the textbook you are now reading for any of your courses?' Not to do so is both morally and intellectually dishonest."

In closing, Canon Green said religion cannot be dealt with in a casual way. "You can never get a personal relationship until both parties give of themselves."

ELECTION PLATFORMS

Candidates for the SEC and Womens Union who wish to have their photos, platforms, and pensketches published in the Daily, please note the following rules:

- 1.) Candidates for the SEC may use a total of 200 words for their combined pensketch and platform, and Women's Union candidates may use a total of 100 words. WARNING: All words over the word limit will be deleted whether or not this occurs in the middle of a sentence.
- 2.) Entries must be signed by the candidate himself, and by not more than SIX of his supporters, with names legibly printed beside the signatures.
- 3.) Photos should be glossy portraits of the candidates head and shoulders. Snapshots will not produce good pictures.
- 4.) Entries must be typewritten on one side of the paper only.
- 5.) Entries should be addressed to the News Editor, McGill Daily, and be handed to George Foster at the Union Tuckshop, no later than 5 pm, Thursday, November 22.

ENTRIES RECEIVED AFTER THE DEADLINE WILL NOT BE PUBLISHED.

Congratulations

The news that the McGill Fund has more than achieved its objective of six million dollars even without the one and a half million dollars promised by Mr. Duplessis will be welcomed by everyone connected with this University. To Mr. R. E. Powell the chairman and to everyone connected with the fund we offer the deepest thanks for your efforts on our behalf.

We sincerely hope that the success of the fund is indicative of a change of attitude on the part of the community and their realization that education is everybody's responsibility.

It might be well to keep in mind that this six million dollars is only a fraction of the estimated forty million which is necessary to help McGill regain its position of leadership and to provide for the expected increased enrollment. The salaries received by the faculty at McGill are still pitifully low when compared to other major Canadian and American Universities. The ceilings in the Biology Building still leak and the Beatty Memorial Lectures still must be given in a gymnasium.

Many more farsighted and devoted men like Mr. Powell and Mr. Fuller are urgently needed if this University is to carry on successfully and maintain its position as one of the foremost universities in the Commonwealth.

To all those connected with the McGill Fund: Congratulations for a job well done.

Letter To The Editor

Thou Art Blind

Sir:

I question the logic and rationality of Don Kingsbury's seemingly well-informed article regarding Evolution (of human society), with respect to his conclusions and predictions, which appeared Fri. Oct. 16.

I agree that North America and Israel are examples of virile and advancing cultures, where technology, and the variety of goods and production, has reached previously unheard-of levels. However, your correspondent ignores the reality of a similar, and perhaps greater development in Communist China, India, and the Soviet Union, where ancient cultures are being revived and modernized together with industrialization.

China

With respect to China, Napoleon Bonaparte recognized that there slept a giant, not to be awakened; China is awake!

With respect to India, parliamentary democracy, inherited from Great Britain, is laying the foundations for a promising cultural society, which only the future will expose.

And your correspondent is making a fundamental error, which may prove fatal to our society very much as it did for the Nazi Germans, who completely underestimated the capacity and potential of the Soviet Union. Prominent Canadian citizens have testified on behalf of Soviet youth, in their dedication to the tasks which they accept for themselves. Allow me to support my argument by quoting from an editorial titled, "Work Will Win", which appeared in Montreal's morning paper, The Gazette, Wed. June 27, 1956:

"The most anxious question being asked today is this: who will win the future?"

"And the answer may be very simple. The future may belong to those who are willing to work the hardest."

Mr. Muir

"A very forceful warning on this point has come from Mr. James Muir, chairman and president of the Royal Bank of Canada. Mr. Muir has just (recently) returned from a visit to the (Soviet Union). 'I was perhaps impressed most of all,' he says, 'by how hard the Russians are working. One cannot escape sensing the urgency and intensity of their efforts.'"

"It has been very easy to compare Western living standards with (the Soviet Union), and to be complacent about the result. But Mr. Muir points out that this is essentially a false method of comparison."

"When two men are running a race the important thing may not be who happens to be ahead at the moment. The important thing is who is running the faster. For it is always possible for the runner who is behind to overtake the one ahead, before the race is over."

Whither Western Unity?

Germany On The Rise

By
Peter Regensstreif

Certain basic economic facts are now being forced upon the consciousness of the world as a result of the Suez Crisis. Oil — that necessity of modern technology — is now being denied to Western Europe in increasingly larger quantities.

Just this week-end, word was received that the countries of that area, had asked their inhabitants not to go on their customary motoring jaunts. The reason — lack of fuel. Rationing is just around the corner.

The effect on touring is not the real bother, however. What is of utmost concern is the ultimate halt to industry that is the inevitable result of this lack of oil. But stealthily hidden by the ever headline-grabbing events in the UN, Suez and Hungary is the fact that of all the countries of the area, Germany is least dependent upon petroleum products from the middle-east for industrial use. West Germany uses coal. Most of their oil comes from Venezuela!

Notice how West Germany has kept her counsel in the troubles over the Canal. Adenauer was perfectly aware of the intricacies of the situation. At worst, the situation in Suez, when finally resolved would leave his country in the same economic position as before. As things stand now, West Germany can now move rapidly to the front in relation to the rest of her neighbours. How these neighbours are taking this rapid Germanic economic rejuvenation leaves little to conjecture. France, for one, is obviously gnashing her teeth.

Blame Somebody

As usual, blame lies somewhere. Besides the usual diatribe against the United States, mention must be made of the role of the British Labour Party in the whole mess. Leaving aside for a moment the political consideration that it might have been a wise thing for Eden to have informed the opposition (there are certain precedents) before taking the big plunge, the Labour Party chiefs have shown a

The important question is: who is gaining?

"As Mr. Muir put it: 'Their standard of living is below ours, but one should not pay too much attention to that. I would be inclined to put the emphasis on the extent to which they are improving their standard of living and the progress they have made in that sense. One cannot escape sensing the urgency and intensity of effort to build up a standard of living.'"

"This report from so eminent a banker as Mr. Muir, is all the more interesting from the way it confirms recent reports from other visitors to (the Soviet Union). His conclusions support those reached by the industrialist, Mr. James S. Duncan, chairman and president of Massey-Harris-Ferguson Limited.

"Mr. Duncan, who visited (the Soviet Union) a few months ago, came back to warn Canadians that it is dangerous to shrug off Communism as something that will come and go, instead of recognizing it as a dynamic, challenging, forward-thrusting force."

when the next general election comes around.

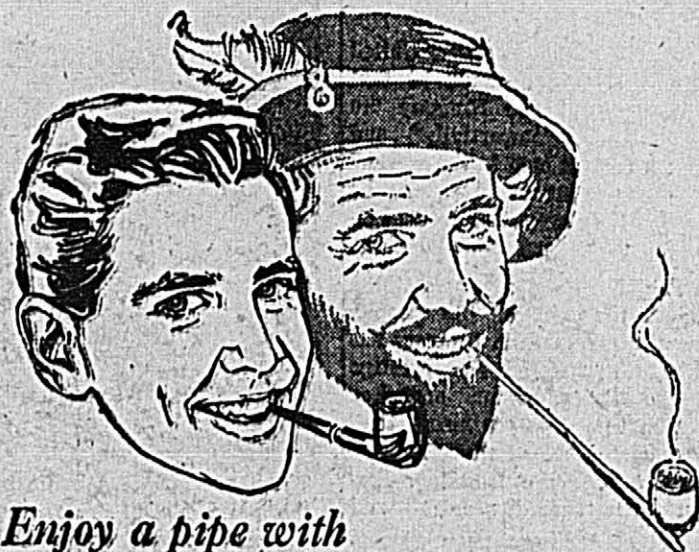

All For Nothing

As for the United States, the best that can be said is that all that expenditure over Marshall Plan and other forms of economic aid (considerable though this has been) has gone to waste as far as the good relations aspect of it is concerned. Where was the required positive action — this time in terms of economic foreign aid programmes and the like — when allies was endangered? More irrefragable the jugular vein of the Western possibility, although from a different approach this time.

More Silliness

But the height of the entire mix-up and wandering on the part of the Americans was the recent statement by some minor under-secretary to the under-secretary in the State Department. He said, in effect, that the British and French had violated certain treaty obligations when they used American arms for the purposes of aggression. He continued that although no sanctions would be employed against the two countries this time...

Campus Profiles

Miller Of Philosophy

by Edith Goldstein

University professors generally lead very interesting lives — they have opportunities to travel, to meet the famous names of our day, to see that many universities are like. Here at McGill we have a wealth of such experience. As the first in a series of professor profiles, we present an interview with Professor J. M. Miller of the philosophy department.

Probably it is lean frame that gives one the impression that Professor Miller is on the tall side. His spry, gaunt face and white hair makes one think in terms of patriarchs. But when he speaks Professor Miller shows great friendliness, smiles frequently as if he were sharing a joke with you; and the image is revised to contain a kindly father, who takes time out of important work to relate several anecdotes and talk of days "when".

Whitehead and Elliot

We asked him to tell us about the philosophers he had known. He leaned back in his chair, lit his pipe, and started recounting: "Whitehead, Emile Meyerson, Gilson, Ralph Barton Perry".

"I began as a graduate student in Harvard the same day Whitehead began as professor of philosophy. I heard the first lecture he gave, which was a summary of his philosophical thinking, and I found it completely charming and completely unintelligible. For a man from the other side of the Atlantic who was devoted to England, he was unusually appreciative of things on this side. He lived in Cambridge, Mass., after he stopped lecturing. I think he would have liked to go back to England, but by then he was too old to make the trip."

On further questioning Professor Miller told us about his acquaintance with T. S. Eliot and other poets he had known: "I met Eliot in about 1934. I was then tutor in Eliot house — no connection with the poet. We became friends, sometimes had lunch together. One evening he read his "Wasteland" aloud. He read with great dignity, and with an Oxford accent, until he came to the line — and here Professor Miller pulled out a volume of Eliot's poetry and indicated the place — "starting, Hurry Up Please It's Time". Then Eliot went into a broad cockney rather like a take-off on the lines. He was a tall man," Professor Miller reminisced, "extremely well-dressed, somewhat like a banker, and very friendly. At that time several of the professors had invested money in stocks, and the conversation often centered on the stock market."

Absent-Minded Genius

Professor Miller also met such men as Carl Sandburg and Robert Frost. "At William and Mary they have a celebration every December — Phi Beta Kappa was founded there in December, 1776 — and at one time I was chairman of the committee in charge of entertaining the visiting speakers. We would have a poet and an orator each year.

"One year, when we had Frost, another professor and I were in charge of driving him to a banquet, later to the lecture hall. On the way to the banquet everything went fine. It was only afterwards, when we picked him up to take him to the lecture, that we ran into some difficulty. 'Have I met you?' he asked us. When we assured him he had, he muttered, 'Too many people, too many people'. That year the orator, someone you wouldn't know about here at McGill, had an off-night — we all do occasionally. Frost was sitting on the platform. Everyone was a bit disappointed, but Frost showed it most. He sat there, face-in-hand, often registering expressions of his disgust."

The Ivory Tower and Plato

Professor Miller went on to talk of William & Mary during the war, when he had an administrative position. He thinks that, when it can be done, it is good to alternate ivory tower life with practical life — as Plato suggested. We asked him what the college had been like after the war. He described the veterans as being serious, mature boys. "For the first time boys dominated the question periods and discussion. Before that the girls had held their own."

Miller on McGill

Asked about the differences between Canadian and American universities, he commented on the most striking one: At McGill he finds that he has more leisure, to publish and to spend on preparations for teaching. In the States committees take up much time. Professor Miller is now working on three books: he is revising his exercises in symbolic logic for a new edition, he is writing a text of logic, tentatively entitled "Pure and Applied Logic," and he is working in the history of Greek philosophy, the book to be entitled "Socrates".

Academic Career

Later, from a recent edition of "Who's Who in America", we found out that Professor Miller has also written "The Structure of Aristotelian Logic". We found out other interesting biographical details about him: that he received his AB from the University of Michigan, his AM and his Ph.D. from Harvard, that he had studied in

Spanish Club To Host International Dinner

The first International Dinner of the year, sponsored by the McGill Students' Union, will take place this evening at 6:30 p.m. in the Union Cafeteria. The Spanish Club will act as hosts for the event.

Students will be treated to a completely different type of food flavour. The meal will consist of an all-Spanish menu of spicy Spanish and Latin-American dishes.

Following the dinner members of the Spanish Club will put on entertainment representing various Latin American countries. Highlighting the show will be the performance of the "Bambuco", a Columbian dance, featuring Doris Cabal and Roger Nincheri.

A short talk outlining the country of Chile will also be given by Professor Sandorval of the McGill Spanish Department.

It should be emphasized that attendance at the Spanish Evening not only will provide one with a wonderful time, but will also give an additional insight into the Spanish way of life.

The price for the evening, to which all students are invited, is only $1.00. Tickets will be on sale from 1 p.m. to 2 p.m. in the lobby of the Union.

Atomic Energy Expert To Address C.I.C.

Dr. Walter G. Whitman will speak in the Physical Science Centre Auditorium on Wednesday, November 21st, at 4.00 p.m. to the Student Chapters of the Chemical Institute of Canada and the American Institute of Chemical Engineers. Chemists and Chemical Engin-ers from Loyola, Sir George Williams College, the University of Montreal and L'Ecole Polytechnique are also being invited.

Dr. Whitman is a very distinguished Chemical Engineer, and has had a great deal to do with the defence effort of the U. S. Atomic Energy Program. He was secretary of the "Atoms for Peace" Conference in Geneva in 1955. Dr. Whitman has served as director of the Basic Chemicals Division of the War Production Board, and of the Lexington project for the Atomic Energy Commission. He was Secretary-General of the United Nations International Conference on the peaceful uses of Atomic Energy, and is President for the year 1956 of the American Institute of Chemical Engineers. He is at present Professor and head of the Department of Chemical Engineering at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

the University of Paris; that besides being professor at William and Mary since 1938, he had been dean of the faculty until 1946, and briefly in 1951, acting president; that he was the American representative to Pakistan's Philosophy congress of 1954, and that he's married, and has two sons.

We thought all this nicely illustrated his last remark to us, in which he praised the academic life — the only place, as he put it, "where man has enough leisure to live as well as make a living."

student news around the world

BERLIN

Over 500 students at the University in East Berlin demanded in a resolution the abolishment of Russian lessons, the elimination of preparatory military training, and the admittance of independent student organisations. In other universities in East Germany, it also came to vehement discussions and demands by students for a limitation of lessons on Marxism-Leninism. In connection with these incidents at East German universities, the Politburo of the SED (Socialist Unity Party) expressed the opinion that "there are obviously some students who identify themselves with certain trends among the student body of Poland and Hungary without an exact knowledge of the situation." (Special report).

BURMA

U Nu, former Premier of Burma and President of the Anti-Fascist People's Freedom League warned Burma that if the "cult of lawlessness" spreading among the students was not eliminated, the situation in the country would become "disastrous". The former Prime Minister said that several students were "bent more on inciting unrest than on pursuing their studies. They even go to the extent of abusing teachers." U Nu said that Communists and other "multi-coloured rebels" were infiltrating into the ranks of students and instigating them to acts of indiscipline and lawlessness. The Burmese Education Ministry has ordered abolition of all student unions in State High Schools all over the country within 30 days from October 18th. School Councils and associations formed under the guidance and leadership of Principals and Headmasters will be permitted, but no rival body will be allowed to function. If students attempt to interfere in the carrying out of this directive, the order said the Principals are empowered to expel such students for life. If the Principals encounter force or resistance, they can close down the schools for specified or unspecified periods. And if the resistance takes a serious turn, the Principals can summon the assistance of police and local administrative officials to restore law and order. (ASNS, Jodhpur)

LUXEMBURG

While shouting "Long live Hungary" and "Down with the Soviets" approximately 300 students stormed the Soviet Embassy, dragged out the entire furnishings, and set them on fire. The dinner table just arranged for in commemoration of the Soviet October Revolution was converted into a heap of ruins by the irate students. (AP)

UNION OF SOUTH AFRICA

The South African Government have announced their intention of introducing apartheid in the open Universities in South Africa so as to prevent white and black students from studying together. Legislation to enforce apartheid will possibly be introduced in the next session of the South African Parliament which opens in January 1957. Already in 1948, an attempt was made by the Government to represent the policy of open Universities as being in conflict with the whole basis of education in South Africa. But all 17 candidates elected to the University of Cape Town SRC in August 1956 declared their support for the non-segregation policy, and at Witwatersrand, 20 out of 22 candidates did the same. Ever since the Government started threatening to interfere in the Universities of Cape Town and the Witwatersrand, students and staff concerned have used two arguments in reply: firstly, any enforcement of apartheid contrary to the wishes of the Universities would be a clear violation of the independence of these Universities; secondly, all the evidence from responsible persons connected with the system of non-segregation proves that non-segregation not only is a workable policy, but appears to be the best for South African universities. EVERYBODY IS WELCOME — ADMISSION FREE

The University And Freedom

by Morrie SHOHE

The following is the text of the address by the President of the Students' Society to the Hungarian Rally last evening.

We have been witness, these past weeks, to a courageous people's fight for a belief. This belief is not a new one. It has been echoed many times, by many peoples, in every recess of the world and in every period of history. The American Constitution has expressed it as follows: "We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their creator with certain inalienable rights, that among these are Life, Liberty, and the Pursuit of Happiness."

As students we are intimately concerned with this latest of our all-embracing constitutionalism. We are concerned because it was our counterparts, the Hungarian students, that precipitated the general cry of freedom. We are concerned because these same youths have been made subjects of mass deportations and cruel imprisonments.

The Students' Role

That students should have been the first to protest against the restraints on freedom and lack of national independence is not surprising. Perhaps more than any other community, the University is intimately and directly involved with freedom. Academic freedom, exemplifies the most basic of democratic ideals — the freedom to think without external pressures, and the freedom to express your thoughts without fear.

The initiative shown by the Hungarian students would tend to disprove the hypothesis that any future hope for the democratic process in the totalitarian states rests with the elder generation — those who have known life before. It is argued that the youth of a nation can be indoctrinated through education into believing and accepting the political practices into which they have been born. I would suggest that almost the converse is true — that education, by its nature, can only lead to tireless questioning and rigid experimentation.

Questioning Attitude

Such a postulation is born out by the experiences that McGill students have had with their counterparts in the iron-curtain countries. On a tour conducted this past Summer, in which students from many Canadian Universities were participants, there was opportunity for personal and informal gatherings with the students of the iron curtain countries. Rather than blind belief, the Canadians found that there was honest questioning and sincere desire to find the Truth. It was true that few had the courage to state their convictions in the prevailing atmosphere. This, however, is not of prime importance, for when the cause is sufficiently great, fear alone is never an overriding factor. What is important is that curiosity, the underlying nature of education, cannot be erased; that scholars will continue to seek answers and demand explanations; that finally a society which preserves the dignity and natural rights of man will have been evolved.

McGill Will Play Its Part

Our hope for the future is that those Hungarians who have given their lives have not done so in vain. The immediate need is the rehabilitation of those who were fortunate enough to escape from Russian-dominated Hungary. To

He will deal with the construction of the foundations of the new Queen Elizabeth Hotel, particularly with the 60 foot high retaining wall accomplished with the aid of tunnels and short trenches. Slides will be used to illustrate many points in the discourse.

Liberal MP's To Debate Capital Punishment

Two members of the Liberal Party will debate the pros and cons of Capital Punishment at McGill this Thursday November 22, at 8:30 p.m. in the Physical Science Centre. They are Mrs. Ann Shipley, of Kirkland Lake, and James E. Brown, Q.C., of Brantford.

"I think these persons, being members of the House of Commons Committee, will give you a refreshing and stimulating debate," said M. E. Kidd, General Secretary of the National Liberal Federation of Canada, in a recent letter to the McGill Debating Union.

The Liberal Party Debate will be open to all interested persons. The topic is, "Resolved that Capital Punishment should be abolished in Canada." This debate is part of the McGill Debating Union's new "On Thursday" Series.

wards these ends, I understand, a committee has been established. Part of its function will be an attempt to place Hungarian student refugees in the universities of Canada and the United States. McGill students stand ready to assume as large a role in this undertaking as our resources will allow. We earnestly believe that our first responsibility is to preserve the freedoms which we enjoy — our second is to allow as many people as possible to share them with us.

Production of the Red and White Revue starts into its second week this Wednesday in the Walter M. Stewart room of the McGill Union when a combined dance rehearsal and final audition will be held. The auditioning will start at 8:30 p.m. for those who have been unable to attend previous auditions, and will be followed at 9:30 by the first dance rehearsal for those selected at last Wednesday session. The final auditions for actors and singers will also be held this week in the Walter M. Stewart room when on Friday at 1:15 p.m. Brian Macdonald will meet those who have been unable to make acting or singing auditions held earlier, but are still interested in trying out. Rehearsals will start next week.

On Friday, November 23, from 9 to 1, the Engineering Undergraduate Society plays host to the campus in the form of the Engineers' Fall Informal. The highlight of the evening will be the crowning of the "Queen of the Engineers". The name of the queen, who is being chosen by a selection committee of the executive of the dance, will be announced Wednesday or Thursday.

On hand to crown the queen will be the internationally known, and currently one of the most popular singers on the North American continent, Miss Eartha Kitt. "Kitty" as Miss Kitt is sometimes referred to, will appear at the dance through the wonderful cooperation of the El Morocco Café. Miss Kitt is here as part of the new "big name act" policy of the El, and is currently playing to capacity houses there.

Among her best known songs are two popular hit paraders, "C'est Si Bon" and "Santa Baby". Although her fame is directly attributed to her singing, Miss Kitt is rapidly becoming known as an excellent dancer as well. She has, in fact, already danced in several T.V. spectacles.

Two main door prizes will be drawn for two lucky couples at the dance. The prizes will be a complete free evening at the beautiful Bellvue Casino. The evening will include supper and a show, which is doubly enticing as the next attraction at the Casino will be the fabulous Four Lads. In addition, other prizes such as tickets to the Plumbers' Ball, McGill Prom and the Red and White Revue will be given away.

Those who have bought tickets up until 1.00 p.m. on the Friday of the dance will be eligible for the draw to be held on the Engineering Building steps at that time. The queen will draw three tickets, and although the contents of the prizes cannot be mentioned, the recipients will definitely derive a good time from them.

The dance will be held at the Sir Arthur Currie Gymnasium, and it will be a cabaret style affair, although table reservations are not essential. Russ Dufort and his Orchestra will provide the dancing music, and a Charleston contest will be one of the evening features. Ice will be supplied at the table, and mixers will be available.

Admission to the dance is $2.00 per couple. Tickets are on sale everyday between 12 and 2 pm in the Engineering building and the Union.

Women's Union To Sponsor Bazaar

Preparations for the Mammoth Bazaar, to be staged by the McGill Womens' Union on Nov. 29, are well underway. Judy Bowman, Co-chairman of the Bazaar stated: "We are encouraged by the few articles which have already been donated for sale, but must stress that the support of all the McGill women who have contacted and who have pledged donations is needed if the bazaar is to be a success".

Contributions may be left at the Womens' Union Office every day from 12-2 P.M. Donated articles must be in by Friday, Nov. 23, in order that sorting and pricing may begin. An exception to this is cooking, which should be brought into the Womens' Union office between 12-2 P.M. on Wednesday, Nov. 28, or at any time during the morning of Thursday the 29th.

Particulars

The Bazaar is to be held in the Dining Hall of RVC on Thursday, Nov. 29 from 2-9 P.M. It is planned that various articles including cooking, sewing, knitting, "white elephants", and special Christmas decorations and gift suggestions will be sold at very reasonable prices. More expensive articles, including a huge Christmas cake, will be raffled during the event. Tea will be served in the RVC common room from 3-6 P.M.

Fund for Scholarship

The purpose of the Bazaar is to raise enough money to set up a sizeable scholarship fund, which will provide scholarships for needy and capable women students working for a degree at this university. In raising this money through a pre-Christmas Bazaar, the Women's Union hopes to perform a service to those wishing to buy inexpensive Christmas gifts, as well as building the scholarship fund", said Miss Bowman.

Fake Flame Fools Fans

SYDNEY, Australia, Nov. 18. (UP) — The Olympic torch was carried through Sydney tonight by relays of runners after Sydney University students first presented Pat Hills, the town's Lord Mayor, with a fake torch.

The runner carrying the real flame was several minutes late for the welcoming ceremony at the City Hall. A "phoney" runner from the University hurried up the steps and presented Hills with a torch made of a big jam can attached to a newly silver-painted stick.

Hills, apparently unable to see the torch clearly because of the glare from huge lights focused on the steps, took it and began his speech. But he finally noticed the silver paint coming off on his hand and told 30,000 packed in the square, "That was a trial run."

"Our friends from the University think that was rather funny," Hills added while the crowd roared. The fake runner disappeared into the throng.

'Carpet' To Land Soon

McGill's international variety show, the "Flying Carpet" is getting ready to fly again for the fifth year. Presented by the McGill International House Committee, it will be held in Moyse Hall from Tuesday, Nov. 27 to Friday, Nov. 30 at 8:30 p.m.

The "Flying Carpet" is organized by the national clubs on campus, and will be made up of national songs and dances. The aim of the show is to present the various aspects of the cultural background of the national groups represented at McGill, which include Spain, Japan, Greece, China, the West Indies, the Ukraine, Poland, Latin America, Armenia, Israel, Africa, Arabia, Germany, and Ireland.

The purpose of the show is to raise money for the proposed International House residence and student centre at McGill, which will provide low-cost accommodation for foreign and out-of-town students. It will be built as near the campus as possible, and is intended to serve as a student centre for non-resident students. All profits of the "Flying Carpet" will be given to the University to be held in trust.

Tickets will be on sale in the Union from 1-2 p.m. on Tuesday to Friday of this week.

THE WINNAHS AND STILL CHAMPS!

What was left of the Toronto Varsity Blues now know how the McGill Redmen felt when they played Queen's back on October 27th with a little more than a quarter of the McGill team laid up due to injuries. For those with short memories, the Red and White led that game 15-14 going into the last minute of play. Ron Stewart then scored a Gael touchdown to send the Redmen down to defeat and finish them off for the season. Last Saturday Toronto led the Gaels 2-1 going into the last minute and then Jocko Thompson banged a 27 yard field goal through the uprights to beat Toronto and win the Yates Cup for the Golden Gaels for the second straight year. The three-pointer was a bit on the fluky side as it bounced off a Toronto player's helmet on route through the red, gold and yellow Queen's crossbars.

The Blues played without some seven regulars and still put up a whale of a fight. It looks like had the Blues been at full strength, they would have taken all the marbles. But the Varsity manpower had been worn and the Gaels at full strength game through in the end. The second McGill-Queen's game pretty much followed the same pattern. The ranks of the Redmen had been badly depleted by injuries and the Red and White just didn't have it and also went down to a last minute defeat.

It is our opinion, and you can take it or leave it for what it's worth, that a Redmen team at full strength would have beaten the Gaels three weeks ago. It also seems that a Varsity squad with all their men playing would also have taken the Gaels last week. But injuries are all a part of the game and Queen's who got off relatively easy in that department, came out on top. It is a strange coincidence, but McGill had some half a dozen men, or more, hurt playing against Queen's. Toronto also got the bulk of their injuries against Queen's.

We noticed a lot of Queen's clipping and rough play against the Redmen, but we don't know what happened against Toronto. Queen's may not be the cleanest playing football squad, but they're the champs. And so that is 'Amen' for another football season.

"T" IS FOR TOE, AND THOMPSON TOO!

Ronnie Stewart provided the spark for the two Queen's titles, but right now the man that the Varsity students hate most, and would probably love to hang, in effigy, or otherwise, is one Mr. Jocko Thompson. Thompson isn't exactly what one would use in the advertisements to depict a big burly football player. He is the lightest man on the squad weighing an even 150 pounds and stands five foot eight. The 24 year old St. Catharines Ontario product is in his third year Medicine. For those fans who saw Queen's here three weeks ago, Thompson is the fellow who wore number seventy and was constantly getting the Gaels out of danger with long, booming punts. He is presently the Gaels tenth highest scorer in their all time scoring records.

Let us review just what friend Thompson has done to Toronto this year, and as a matter of fact, last year too. Taking first things first, let's turn back the big score clock to October 29, 1955. Remember, last play of the game and Toronto leading Queen's 10-8. A victory for the Blues and they win the Yates Cup. Queen's had the ball on the Toronto 18 and Gus Braccia (remember him?) was quarterbacking the Gaels. The Tricolor came up in field goal formation with Gus set to hold on the Varsity 23. Thompson was a yard back and carefully practicing kicks at an imaginary ball. Signals were called and the ball was snapped. Braccia touched the oval ball down, Thompson stepped forward and — bingo, there was a playoff game in Kingston the next week by virtue of the Gaels 11-10 win.

WHO SAYS LIGHTNING NEVER STRIKES TWICE?

In that playoff game Jocko kicked the only points in the first half as he arched a 26 yard field goal through the posts to give the Golden Gaels a 3-0 halftime lead. That was all the Queen's team as the Blues couldn't score any points against the Kingstons. But Jocko and the Gaels weren't through. They got 15 more points to win 18-0. Thompson booted another field goal to close the scoring and also had a single and convert for an eight point day.

This year "old Jocko" also had a hand in every Queen's-Toronto game and could possibly be the man most responsible for the reason why Queen's ended up in a first place tie with Toronto. In the first game, way back on October 6th, the two clubs battled to a 7-7 stalemate. Thompson saved one as he kicked a 55 yard single on the last play of the game to snatch a tie out of defeat for the Gaels.

Two weeks ago he kicked two field goals and a convert, the exact margin of the Tricolor's 19-12 win over Toronto in the game that caused Saturday's playoff. Then last week he once again wrote finis to Toronto hopes with a 27 yard field goal in the last minute as Queen's won the Yates Cup 4-2. On yeah, we almost forgot, Jocko also kicked the point that gave the Gaels a 1-0 half time lead. Can we blame Torontonians for wishing that Thompson would pick up his belongings and leave the country?

FOILED AT LAST

Strangely enough 'old Jocko' wasn't too successful against the Redmen. In Kingston he had one field goal attempt blocked and another was wide. In Montreal he missed another pair of field goal tries and also failed to connect on two out of three convert attempts. But it looks like Jocko Thompson gets 'em when they count most. Oh well, he'll graduate someday — we hope!

Redmen Revue

by Jerry LEFSON

It is both startling and dismaying to hear that injuries have already struck the Senior Basketball Team so early in the season. The casualties are Don Wright, Sonny Gordon, and Ozzie Zommers all of whose injuries were not sustained in basketball.

Don Wright, who plays out of the guard position, and Sonny Gordon, who is up with the Seniors for his first year, both are laid up with ankle injuries which are left over from the football season.

LEON DUPLESSIS
REDMEN CAPTAIN

Meanwhile a recent knee operation will keep Ozzie Zommers out of the lineup for a while.

Coach Joe Anderson does not know exactly how long it will be before these men are back in top condition and able to play. It is certain that they will miss a few of the exhibition games at the beginning of the season.

Another dull note, which comes by way of Coach Anderson, is that Justin "Red" Cross McGill's 6'5" centre might not be able to join the team on all of the out of town games.

Switching to the brighter side of things Captain Leon Duplessis is back again. George Rosenberg has also returned and is considered by the experts to be the most improved player on the team and is getting better all the time. This is his third year on the team.

From the west coast of Canada McGill has a newcomer, in the person of Herman Zloklikovits, a second year Dentistry student. He is a very aggressive player and will be an asset to the team especially since some of the men are out with injuries.

Jerry Dionne who was one of Loyola's best players last year will be out for the Red and White this season.

Cecil Jones who played for McGill a few years ago is back again this year. John Finch and Leon Solomon, have also returned.

NOTICE

The Pool Room will be closed every Saturday from this weekend.

Rugger Squad Captures City Championship

The McGill Rugger team won the city championship by virtue of a 19-8 victory over Town of Mount Royal on Saturday. The game was played at Monkland Junior High School.

Trailing by a 6-0 count at the half, the rugger stars banged home 19 points in the second half to take the game and the championship. The Red and White had to show some of the stuff with which they downed their previous opponents, in order to defeat the tough Mount Royal club. McGill managed to run wild over their tiring opponents, while playing shutout ball in the second half.

Howie Ryan's squad won its second championship this season, having previously captured the Intercollegiate rugger championship for the seventh consecutive year. The Townies scored twice early in the game to take a commanding 6-0 lead, which they held during the first half. Just as things looked good to the Mount Royal supporters, McGill broke loose in the opening minutes of the second half. Ian Stuart and Alex Bible scored tries for the victors to tie the game. Sass Khazzam, who led the rugger champs to victory against Toronto last week, was once again the big gun. He counted 13 points, scoring a try, two converts, and two penalty kicks. Khazzam's boots have meant the difference in many a McGill win.

BILLIARDS

The McGill Snooker and Billiards tournaments are being held every Tuesday evening from 8-10 in the Union Billiards room.

Mr. Dave Spurrell has made up the first draw from the names already entered. Entries will remain open until next Tuesday at which time a second draw will be made. Snooker games will be decided by the best of three matches, while Billiards competitions will be a single match up to 100 points. The losing contestant pays for the table.

You can enter a tournament simply by placing your name on the list in the Billiards room. For more information contact Bob or phone Mr. Spurrell at BE. 0624.

Boxers To Battle For Team Berth

by DAVE MILLMAN

This year the Interfaculty Boxing Championships will take place on Saturday night, December 8, at McGill's first Athletics Night of the season.

Coach Bert Light announced yesterday that eleven bouts have been arranged so far but that there are still openings at all weights. Coach Light hopes to pick his intercollegiate team on the basis of these bouts.

In the opening bout of the evening Harvey Kolodny meets Brian Cowan for the 130 lb. interfaculty title. Kolodny represented McGill at this weight last year but lost a split decision to B. McMurry of Varsity in the semi-finals.

Frank Blum meets Eric Lindsay in what should promise to be quite a battle for the 135 lb. title. Although neither of these boys represented McGill last year, both are experienced.

At 140 lb. Gerry Williams meets Peter Thompson. Williams is the more experienced of the two, having represented McGill at the Kingston tournament, but Thompson has a height and reach advantage over his opponent, which should make this an interesting bout.

So far two bouts have been set up at the 140 pound weight. In the first bout Johnie Fawcett meets Jimmy Munroe, and in the next Shozo Azano meets Bob Green. Both Green and Fawcett are medical students and were on the Redmen Boxing team last year. Before coming to McGill, Fawcett are medical students and were on the Redmen Boxing team last year. Before coming to McGill, Fawcett was a San Francisco District Champion, and he has a reputation for putting on a good show at all his bouts.

Joe Puddicombe, finalist in the last intercollegiate meet, battles Denny Repole, one of coach Light's more experienced fighters in the 150 lb. Division. Both these boys are sluggers with a knock out punch, and either one is capable of beating the other.

The 150 lb. battle will see Barry Dunseath go against Bill Briggs, and Peter Woolgar meets Pete Buchanan at 160 pounds. None of these boys have fought at McGill and so little is known of their ability. However all are trying to earn a berth on the squad, so you can be sure that no punches will be pulled.

Pierre Raymond boxes Herman Kennedy for the 165 lb. championship. Raymond was eliminated by an ex-pro Bill Sydney, of Toronto, in the closes fought bout of last year's intercollegiate meet. Unfortunately, Pierre broke some bones in his hand at the meet, and so this will be his first outing since then.

At 175 pounds, Ozzie Downes, Intercollegiate Champ of 1955, will do battle with Don Stirling. Downes was unable to make the trip to Kingston last year.

Charles Klemka fights Pete Armour in the Heavyweight division. The winner of this bout will fight Norm "the bomb" Zavalkoff, last year's interfaculty champ. "The Bomb" is undefeated in the ring.

This year the Intercollegiate Boxing Tournament is to be held at O.A.C. in Guelph on February 15-16. All men students with any boxing experience are invited to the team work outs. These are held on Tuesdays and Thursdays at 5:30 in the B.W.F. room in the Gym.

ROUTINE PRACTISES

Tuesday, Nov. 20th

Director:— Sheila and Betty Lindsay — time: 9-10. Rose Rochman — time: 9-10.

Starting this week, there are only three weeks left until the show is finally put on. It is absolutely necessary that all the swimmers turn up for the practises, even just for the drill.

Please be ready 10 minutes ahead of your practise time for land drill.

NOTICE

Four students wish ride to Toronto on Friday for Grey Cup Game. Will share expenses. Contact John — MA. 9680, Anita — CR. 7-2793.

WRESTLING

If you are interested in participating in the McGill intercollegiate wrestling program, either as a direct participant or on the managerial end, come up to the B.W.F. room of the gymnasium at 5 o'clock on either Tuesday or Thursday of each week.

For those who would like to try out for the team emphasis is placed on the fact that your weight will not be a large factor as you would wrestle only in your weight class. There are eleven categories, ranging from 130 lbs., through 167 lbs., up to the heavyweight division of over 191 lbs., into which you can enter.

Freshmen are reminded that by coming out for the team, taking part in matches, and attending practices you can obtain the 20 points necessary to satisfy the requirements of the freshman physical education program.

DAILY PARTY

HEAR YE! HEAR YE! There will be a Daily Party Nov. 23 in the Club Room starting at 8:30 p.m. All Daily Staffers interested in having a good time are expected to attend. The party will be stag, and refreshments are to be served.

Hockey Braves Open Season Next Week

by FRED SELIGMAN

The McGill Intermediate Braves last night displayed their wares at the McGill Winter Stadium before a sparse number of onlookers, four to be exact. They included the coach, Johnny Meagher, Freddie the Trainer, the ice-cleaner and this Daily reporter.

The Inters will play a series of thirteen exhibition games against clubs of various calibre. They will play Loyola College three times and Sir George twice. Also scheduled is a home and home series against Queen's. The Braves will travel to St. John's to tackle CMR and will play their "brothers" out at St. Anne de Bellevue and the Senior Redmen twice a piece. Another exhibition contest lined up just last night by Meagher will pit the Braves against the Verdun crew of the Metropolitan Junior Loop.

This is the same crew that the Senior Redmen swamped 10-2 last Friday night. However the Braves will probably have a much rougher time with the Verdunites than did Robillard's pucksters.

The Braves will open their season next Wednesday evening against the Loyola in the unofficial opening of the Winter Stadium which will officially open two nights later when the Redmen tackle the highly-touted Toronto Blues.

Meagher's team still needs a bit of polishing around the edges, but on the whole the club looks good and the workout ran smoothly.

The squad has not as yet been trimmed down to size. Coach Meagher still expects some help to come via Robillard's Redmen when the latter starts cutting his club.

On defence there is Jim Lafolly, Dave Outerbridge, Eberts, Jan Sanelius and Johnny Bennett. The latter two are better known for their talents on the football field.

The goal-tending chores will probably be shared by Jerry Wasserman and Kenny "Porky" Chrystallor.

The team has had its share of injuries. Northey, is out with a broken wrist, Forcier has a couple of split ribs, and goalie Wasserman a lacerated skull.

Patterson Wins Calvert

MONTREAL, Nov. 19. (BUP) — The Montreal Alouettes' Hal Patterson, pass receiving and defensive football star from Kansas University, has been awarded the Lord Calvert trophy for the second time in the eight-year history of the Cup, it was announced tonight.

Patterson walked off with 8,072 points, a 1,414 margin over the Als' Tom Hugo, his nearest rival.

Previous winners of the Calvert Cup were Virgil Wagner, 1949; Herb Trawick, 1950 and 1951; Jim Ostendarp, 1952; Sam Etcheverry, 1953; Alex Webster, 1954; and Patterson, 1955.

Ex-McGill Man Heads Bell's TV Program

Bud Patton, publicity manager of "Open House" was recently appointed to the Public Relations Department of the Bell Telephone Company. One of the first projects he is working on is a one hour television 'spectacular', which started last night on the CBC network, sponsored by the Bell Telephone Company.

The program is one of a series of shows combining entertainment with authentic information about the meaning of science, and is designed to overcome the difficulty of Communication which seems to exist between scientist and the general public. The first, geared particularly to college students, is "Our Mr. Sun", directed by Frank Capra.

Treasure Van Displays Far Eastern Crafts

The "Treasure Van", sponsored by the World-University Service of Canada, will visit McGill University from Dec. 3 to 7. Mrs. Mulvany, the person who launched the "Treasure Van" back in 1952, organized it for the purpose of promoting Canadian trade with countries rich in handicrafts skills. This has been her aim since the second World War, when she served in the Far East as a member of the Red Cross. At that time, she became attached to the poor and oppressed Easterners who had so many skilled crafts.

This year's Van is presenting for sale such things as African ivory, Indian brass and silks, Mexican jewellery, Grecian pottery, Egyptian scarabs, Jordanian "Mother of Pearl", Hong Kong linens, Japanese kokeski dolls, Malayan paintings and Canadian wood carvings.

Proceeds of the fund are to be allocated to five construction projects:

1— An L-shaped addition to the engineering buildings at University and Milton streets.

2— Reconstruction and modernization of the old biological building, to be linked with Dawson Hall by a new building for the arts faculty.

3— The first section of a Medical Sciences Centre on Pine Avenue.

4— A residence for 200 teachers-in-training at Macdonald College and rehabilitation of the main building there.

5— An annex to Purvis Hall to provide more space for the School of Commerce.

Other prominent figures such as Wilder Penfield, director of the Montreal Neurological Institute, Dr. Eric Ashby, president of Dr. Louis Alvarez of the University of California, were also mentioned in this illuminating editorial exposing Soviet progress, especially in connection with scientific education.

I was quite amazed to note that your correspondent's article, after beginning so truthfully and searchingly, ended so weakly. Kingsbury failed to mention that American culture is a reflection of that European culture he so well described. And Kingsbury seemed to have been afraid to mention the word, soviet. I suggest that in future he should not be afraid to write the word, for he lives in a "free" democracy, in spite of Le Noblet!

Let me end on a note of accusation: Kingsbury's ignorance of contemporary life speaks for itself, when he expressed great confidence in "North American culture", brushed lightly over "communist countries", and completely ignored Asian culture.

Write no more, Don Kingsbury, for thou art blind.
